Notes from the Universe Rebecca Cherry

Without question, each one of us stand at humanity's collective crossroad, and how we manage to move our lives and world from where we presently sit to where we would want it to go, is for each one of us to now decide. I don't think that anyone can say that there are not big changes we all need to make in order to move in a better direction, my only wish is that each one of you will take the time for yourselves and your families, as this is the only place to start, and where it can all begin.

When I sat down to write 'Notes of the Universe', this is what I had in mind, and as I proceeded to write, the fascinating discourse continued to reveal information in ways that not only answered my own personal questions, but also offered a broader perspective for others as well.

Whether you choose to believe that the information came through me and onto these pages from an 'off-world' being or not, is truly not important, for my sincere belief is that we are all one anyway.

I hope that you enjoy reading 'Notes from the Universe' as much as I enjoyed writing it. My sincere wish is that you will find it both relevant and inspiring, as I have, and begin to apply these insights that will benefit you in your own life.

In the vision of creating a beautiful New World together,
And In Love,
Rebecca
